NO. 31

1913 ENCAMPMENT OF SOLDIER BOYS

At Middlesboro Was An Enjoyable One.

IDEAL PLACE FOR THE EVENT

The Hartford Company Made a Splendid Showing In Several Ways.

WON A HANDSOME SILVER CUP

The Annual Encampment of the Kentucky National Guards was held this year at Middlesboro, Ky., from July 16th to July 23d inclusive. There were present three regiments of thirty-six companies with nearly two thousand members.

It would be hard to find a better location, for an encampment than Middlesboro. The city is situated in the extreme southeastern corner of the State, and at Cumberland Gap. There are many points of interest in and around the city which added considerably to the pleasure and profit of the encampment.

Cumberland Gap is the natural roadway used by the early settlers coming from the old settlements along the Atlantic coast in Virginia and the Carolinas over into our own State. It is the trail of Daniel Boone and the doorway from the East into the West. Those who had read "Aunt Jane of Kentucky" were interested in feeling that they were treading over the scenes that "Aunt Jane" tells us so much about. On each side of the mountain facing the gap are the remains of the old breastworks thrown up by the forces of the Civil War—on one side the Federal breastworks, on the other side those of the Confederates. The trenches are still plainly to be seen, and the whole battle scene stands out in bold relief. Many of the larger trees stand there like battle-scarred veterans and bear upon themselves the marks of war.

One of the highest points in that locality, known as the Pinnacle, is of considerable interest, and from that point one can get a splendid view of the country for many miles in every direction, covering certain parts of at least five States. With the aid of field-glasses the Blue Ridge Mountains of Virginia are within easy range of the vision, and the citizens of Middlesboro point out with pride the "Old Pine," famous in Jno. Fox, Jr.'s story "The Trail of the Lonesome Pine." On the opposite peak across Cumberland Gap is the location of the cornerstone of the three States of Tennessee, Virginia and Kentucky. These places were frequently visited by the "soldier boys."

The citizens of Middlesboro and vicinity are splendid, hospitable Kentuckians. They seem to live in an atmosphere of vigor, healthfulness and romance. There is every phase of social life, from the darling, unlearned mountaineer to the highly educated and elegant citizen. The hand of civilization has pierced the mountains with tunnels, has cleared up the mountain sides and built farm houses and planted orchards and fields where it seems almost impossible for men to go. Several mines are there and a splendid people live there, happy and contented.

Company H made a splendid showing both in drill, athletic events and general conduct. The highest compliments of the highest commanding officers were bestowed upon Company H for its splendid appearance upon parade. A silver cup was awarded the Company as a trophy for winning the highest number of points in the athletic contest. Those scoring points in this contest were Corporal Eugene Wedding, in the foot race, first prize; Corporal Marvin Hoover, in the equipment race, second prize; Privates Eliza Murphy and Joe Cranan in putting up a dog tent, first prize; best drilled man in Third Regiment, Sergeant W. D. Gray, first prize. In each of these contests there was an individual prize in addition to the points awarded the Company which counted on the silver cup.

The members of Company H, without a single exception made a splendid record of soberness and good behavior. There was not a single instance of real unseemly conduct. The only thing that any member objected to was the amount of pay received. Our pay seemed to have had "the tariff taken off" with that exception every member of the Company is ready to say that he had a pleasant and profitable time.

SOLDIER BOY.
NOTES ON COMPANY H.

The following members of Company H qualified as marksmen July 23 on the local range, viz.: Corp. Seymour Bennett, Cook Lotcher Bennett, Privates Charles Hawkins, Noah Rowe, Harlan Stewart, Gilbert Fugua and Cody Casteel.

Capt. DeWeese made 48 out of a possible 50 at 500 yards Saturday. This is the highest score yet made over the local range.

The Company team will spend Tuesday and Wednesday on the range at Livermore, Ky. This is being done for the purpose of practice in the skirmish run prior to the Earlington State shoot. It is composed of Capt. DeWeese, Lieut. Show, Sergt. Liles, Sergt. Gray, Corp. Hoover and Corp. Wedding. The team will go to Earlington August 4.

BELOVED WOMAN DIED
AT HOME OF HER SON

The Owensboro Messenger of Sunday says:

Mrs. Susan Frances Wells died at 7:30 o'clock Saturday evening at the home of her son, C. W. Wells, 319 E. Seventh street, of a complication of diseases incident to her advanced age. Mrs. Wells was a highly esteemed woman, eighty-three years of age, and her many friends will learn with regret of her demise. She was the widow of James Williams Wells, who died February 3, 1874. But one son survives her, C. W. Wells. Rev. D. E. Yelver, of Ft. Mitchell, and A. R. Yelver, of Owensboro, were brothers of the deceased and two sisters, Mrs. Martha Hansford, of Colorado, and Mrs. Mary Howard, of Daviess county, also survive the deceased.

The funeral will be held at 4 o'clock this afternoon at the residence of Mr. Wells and conducted by the Rev. E. E. Bomar, pastor of the First Baptist church, with interment following in Elmwood cemetery. The following friends and neighbors of the deceased will act as pallbearers: O. C. Haynes, John W. Howard, George W. Jolly, J. W. Jones, Dan Mayfield and W. E. McDonald.

Note—The deceased was a sister of Mr. F. W. Yelver, deceased, a former well known citizen of Hartford, and aunt of Miss Sue Yelver, Messrs. N. A. and A. C. Yelver, city, who, together with the latter's wife, attended the funeral in Owensboro Sunday. Miss Sue had been in attendance at the bedside of her aunt a week before her death.

AGREEMENT RATIFIED
—WILL GO INTO EFFECT

The Owensboro Inquirer of Sunday says:

One of the most important meetings held by the Daviess County local of the American Society of Equity took place in Owensboro on Friday afternoon. The meeting was held at the court house behind closed doors, and there was a good attendance present.

The agreement made at the district meeting held at Hartford some weeks ago was ratified, and will be put into effect in all the counties throughout the district. The agreement is that no one county in the district will sell and deliver its tobacco until all the counties have sold. This was done because of the dissatisfaction of the manner in which the tobacco was disposed of last fall, by which some counties sold and delivered their tobacco, while Ohio county was held back, and with much difficulty and inconvenience to the farmers was the sale finally made.

Sealed bids will be received on the county farm for the oil and gas rights up to 12 o'clock noon, Saturday, August 9, 1913. Right reserved to reject any and all bids.

BOY ADMITS HE PLACED A SPIKE

On Rail, Causing a Very Serious Wreck.

JUST WANTED TO SEE RESULT

The Blame Was Finally Located
After Many and Various Suspensions.

IS HELD TO THE GRAND JURY

The Central City Argus of Friday says:

A remarkable development from the wreck of 101 near Central City Sunday afternoon occurred last Tuesday at noon, as bulletined in the Tuesday issue of the Argus, when Benjamin Avery, the fifteen-year-old son of Sam Avery, admitted that he put a spike on the rail at the Frost curve and wrecked the fast passenger train. The confession relieved a tense situation here, as the spike which caused the wreck had been found and innocent men were under suspicion.

The ditching of 101 on the sharp curve at the Ed Frost barn, near Nelson, was described in detail in Tuesday's Argus. It will be recalled that two trainmen were hurt and scores of passengers had very narrow escapes from death. It was also mentioned that several boys living near the scene sat on a road scraper at the crossing and saw the wreck. This fact brought about the discovery of its cause.

Superintendent Baldwin and the other I. C. officials spent all day Monday looking for the cause of the wreck without success. They examined all of the wheels, trucks, and equipment without detecting any condition which might have brought about the disaster. But finally they found the imprint of some hard object on the rails at the point where the wheels first left the track, and a search was begun for the hard object. The search seemed in vain for a time, but finally a freshly mashed and battered spike was picked up in some weeds about twenty feet from the track, and in a position which made it seem positive that it was the means of doing the damage.

With the discovery of the spike, the next thing to locate was the person who put it on the track, and the inquiry turned along that line. Two or three perfectly innocent parties were at once suspected and shadowed. In the meantime the men working on the wreck began questioning farmers and others living near the scene, as to any suspicious looking characters being in the vicinity. No clues were obtained and the mystery of an attempt to wreck a train in broad daylight, so soon after 102 had passed, and in a thickly settled neighborhood, became deeper.

The fact was reported that Benjamin Avery and two or three other boys were sitting on a road scraper near the scene of the wreck when the train went into the ditch. These boys were questioned, and Avery talked too much. He finally said that he saw somebody else put the spike on the track. Then he admitted that he put it there himself and had been afraid to say so. He declared that he did not mean to do any harm, but just wanted to see what the train would do to the spike. It seems that he and other boys had been in the habit of putting nails on the track, and making scissors by crossing them.

Special agents of the I. C. took charge of Avery and brought him to Central City. His father, who had been at work and knew nothing of the connection of his boy with the wreck until he went to the house for dinner, was dazed at the confession and the mother was distracted. Mr. Avery came to Central City with the boy, and also accompanied him to Greenville, where he was taken for trial. The examining trial was held Tuesday afternoon before Special Judge W. C. Johnson, and the boy was held over to the September grand jury on a bond of $250. As no provision had been made for the bond, the boy had to be sent to jail, where he spent the night weeping and wailing. He showed throughout the proceedings that he had been badly spoiled.

Tuesday night Mr. Avery and Ed Frost arranged the boy's bond and went to Greenville early Wednesday morning to release him. They brought him back to Central City and when they stopped at Frost's implement house, the boy jumped out of the buggy and ran three miles to his home.

STORY OF THE BATHROOM
ANENT PRESENT DROUGHT

Concerning the present drought, a good joke is told on two of Hartford's most estimable citizens—man and wife, both elderly people. It happened a few days ago when the drought was the general topic and everybody was wishing for rain.

It seems that a son of the household, after finishing his bath upstairs after supper, had neglected to turn a certain faucet off entirely. This left a small stream of water running which after awhile flooded the floor and leaked through into a room below.

While after going to bed the good wife was awakened by the sound of dripping water, which she took to be rain outside. The news was too good to lose expression in words.

"Thank the Lord," exclaimed the grateful wife, as the downpour continued. Her husband awakened from a doze by her remark, replied: "Yes, praise the Lord, that does sound good."

Then both were lulled to sleep by the dripping water. The next morning members of the household were horrified upon entering a room beneath the bathroom to find the plastering all off the ceiling and evidences as if a cloudburst had passed over during the night.

But they all took it as a joke, as no very great damage was done.

MISTOOK A MAN'S HAND
FOR SQUIRREL'S ANTICS

Shelbyville, Ky., July 25.—John Floyd was accidentally shot and possibly fatally wounded yesterday afternoon about 5 o'clock by Leslie Thompson, a motorman on the Louisville and Interurban, who was hunting on Newton Griffith's farm near Simpsonville.

Floyd is a cripple, who makes his living by bottoming chairs. Yesterday afternoon he was stripping bark from trees on Mr. Griffith's place for use in his trade. Thompson saw the branches of the trees shaking and fired at Floyd's hand, which he mistook for a squirrel. The shot peppered Floyd from head to foot and three of them are believed to have penetrated the stomach and produced internal injuries. He was removed to his home near Veechdale, where he lives with his father and mother. His condition this morning, while serious, is more hopeful. Floyd is about thirty years of age and unmarried. Thompson is about forty years old and has a wife and one child. His home is in Louisville. No arrests were made, as the shooting was plainly an accident. The two men are good friends of long standing.

Died on Her Birthday.

At the family home in Ohio county, July 24, Martha A. Whiteman, wife of W. H. Whiteman, died, just 65 years from the day of her birth, on July 24, 1848.

She is survived by her husband and one son, Charles F. Whiteman, besides other relatives and a host of friends.

She was a devoted wife and mother, a sympathetic friend and neighbor, ever ready to assist when or where assistance was needed.

Mrs. Whiteman formerly lived in Owensboro.

PARTING OF WAYS IS NOW APPARENT

In Uncle Sam's Attitude Towards Mexico.

SITUATION IS VERY SERIOUS

Sentiment in Congress Drifts
In Direction of Armed Intervention.

FOREIGNERS DEMAND ACTION

Washington, July 26.—The report of Ambassador Henry Lane Wilson on the situation in Mexico which was asked for by the President, was finished this afternoon at 5 o'clock and was sent to the President to-night.

The report of Mr. Wilson comprises his views as to an effective remedy for conditions in Mexico, and this is substantially that the neutrality laws be strictly and adequately enforced and by that enforcement the revolution will disintegrate and peace be restored. This is the proposition of Ambassador Wilson, originally made to the Tag administration and which President Taft adopted by sending a division of the army to the frontier.

But that the United States must at once take a firm and decided stand developed to-day at the series of conferences between Secretary Bryan, Ambassador Wilson and his commission, Mr. Del Valle, and between the Secretary and the Foreign Relations Committee.

In addition to the solution offered by the Ambassador, this Government has left in its final policy the following alternatives:

Recognition of the Huerta Government, with the moral support of the United States in restoring order.

Recognition of the Sonora revolutionists headed by Pesqueria and Mayoutena, as belligerents and supporting them against the Huerta regime.

Intervention, which means war. Mediation, which Ambassador Wilson says also means war, as Huerta will not accept any mediation.

The conference eliminated Carranza as a factor to be considered in the Mexican situation. All the reports reaching the State Department from its confidential sources brand Carranza as an impossibility for the Presidency, and eliminate him from the situation so far as this Government is concerned.

The necessity for this Government to at least adopt a definite policy does not arise from any change of conditions in Mexico itself.

What is now forcing the hand of the United States is the attitude of the European Governments whose representatives in Mexico recently joined in representations against the long-continued Mexican disorders.

The United States is being warned by both its official and private agents that if this Government longer pursues a waiting policy, it soon may be face to face with a break with the world Powers on the Monroe doctrine.

Whether the President has changed his mind within the last three or four days is not known, but it is certain that the idea is crystallizing that Congress itself, which is the only power having jurisdiction of the matter, will order intervention.

Confederate Veterans.

Washington, July 26.—To prolong the life of George W. Naylor, a Confederate veteran, dying in the Paducah, Ky., jail, President Wilson to-day commuted to expire at once the prisoner's one-year sentence for making a false claim for a pension. He was sent to jail in November, 1912, for claiming a pension as a Union soldier. Physicians reported he would die soon if continued longer.

KILLED BY ELECTRIC
SHOCK IN INITIATION

Birmingham, Ala., July 24.—Donald A. Kenney, a chauffeur, and Christopher Gustin, an iron molder, were killed to-night by an electric shock at the local hall of the Loyal Order of Moose. An initiation was in progress, and it is said that an electric shock is part of the ritual. In some way not yet explained the men received too much current.

It was at that thought they had only fainted, and they were hurried to the hospital, but died shortly afterward.

Lodge officials have not yet made a statement regarding the occurrence.

QUICK PLANT DESTROYED
BY FIRE AT LIVERMORE

Livermore, Ky., July 25.—The heating factory of the Quigley Manufacturing Company, located on Green river at this point, was totally destroyed by fire on Thursday morning. The fire was discovered about 8 o'clock in the dry kiln, and although there was a bucket brigade of more than 150 men carrying water from the river, they were unable to save the building. The loss is placed at about $10,000 with about $2,500 insurance.

The factory was running full time and employing about twenty-five men. It is not known whether or not the factory will be rebuilt.

YOUNG STENOGRAPHER
ACCIDENTALLY DROWNED

Frankfort, Ky., July 26.—Miss Catherine Faxon, stenographer to Barksdale Hamlett, Superintendent of Public Instruction, was drowned in the Kentucky river late this afternoon about a half mile above Frankfort. Miss Elizabeth Culter, stenographer in the office of Miss Fannie Rawson, secretary of the Kentucky State Library Commission, was drowning when rescued by George Knight, law clerk to Judge Settle, of the Court of Appeals.

The two girls, who could swim very little, were on a sand bar across the river from the Lawrenceburg pike, and stepped into an offset. Knight, who had taken them across in a canoe, was in the middle of the stream, riding the waves in the wake of a launch. He observed Miss Culter sink and swam to her rescue. While he was taking her ashore Miss Faxon sank and never came up.

Several men saw the rescue of Miss Culter, but none apparently saw Miss Faxon go down. It was fifty-five minutes before divers located her body. She was brought to the bank and unavailing efforts were made to revive her. Miss Faxon was 23 years old and came here from Hopkinsville. Her mother

THE OLDEST WOMAN IN
CALHOUN PASSES AWAY

Mrs. Martha Hicks died at her home in Calhoun last Friday afternoon at 4 o'clock. Death was caused by infirmities incident to old age and following a week's illness.

Mrs. Hicks was in her 89th year, and had lived in Calhoun and in the same house for 50 years. She had been a widow for 30 years and had lived comparatively alone in the little cottage on 4th street, where the neighbors and friends have given every comfort possible.

The funeral was held at the Methodist church Saturday afternoon, conducted by Rev. J. T. Cherry, and the interment followed in Oak Hill Cemetery.—[Calhoun Star.

SECOND CONVICTION
IN THE CALAHAN CASE

Winchester, Ky., July 26.—The jury in the case against D. F. Deaton returned a verdict of guilty at 7:45 o'clock to-night and fixed his punishment at life imprisonment.

The case against Deaton, who was charged with having entered into a conspiracy to bring about the death of Ed Callahan, went to the jury at 5:20 o'clock this afternoon.

Mrs. Callahan, widow of Ed Callahan, and Mrs. Lillian Gross, Callahan's daughter, who had been vigorous in the prosecution, sat quietly and showed no satisfaction at the outcome. Deaton is the second of eighteen defendants to be convicted. Andrew Johnson got a similar sentence on Tuesday.

A RING LOST 23 YEARS STRANGELY RECOVERED

Interesting Story of How a Sonora Banker Got Back Valuable Token.

In the year 1884, Mrs. Reuben Gentry, of Owen county, gave her son, R. T. Gentry, a gold band ring for his birthday present. He was proud of the ring and his pride led to the disappointment of soon losing it.

While at church he allowed one of his girl friends, Miss Della Davis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. B. K. Davis, of Wheatly, Owen county, to have the ring to look at. Girl like, she placed the ring on her finger and said "Bob, I'll give it to you the next time I see you." His modesty prevented his denying her the pleasure of wearing the ring. That week he got a call "to come over." He went and to his sorrow the lady told of how she lost the ring while working in the flowers. Soon all of the young people of the community heard of the loss and all joined in the search, but to no avail. The ring, the birthday present from mother to son, was gone.

The young lady married and died, the young man married and became cashier of the Bank of Sonora and a prominent man of the community.

A few days ago Mr. Gentry received a note asking if he had lost a ring in Mr. Davis' yard. The pen could not write fast enough, the mail seemed too slow for Mr. R. T. Gentry, of Sonora, to write to Mr. Will Reed, Wheatly, Ky., saying, "Yes, I lost it." Seven years after the loss of the ring Mr. Will Reed was born and the other day he was asked to live a swarm of bees for Mrs. Davis, so while at work he found the long lost trophy.

Mr. Gentry's mother is living and knows that her boy has found the present given him when he was only eighteen.

Though the lover of fine horses, the finest horse in Hardin county could not be exchanged for that ring which lay hidden for over a quarter of a century while the young woman grew to womanhood, then passed over the silent river and the young man became prominent as a banker and conservative cashier, and a child was born, grew to manhood, found the ring and delivered it to the first owner. —[Smith's Grove Times.]

PUSHING OVER DYNAMITE FATAL TO ONE BROTHER

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., July 25.—Rowland Funk, of Hudson, N. Y., who was camping with his brother Martin, found two sticks of dynamite in a road and took them to the camp. The boy was picking at one of the sticks with a lead pencil when Martin tried to take it away, fearing an explosion. That started a wrestling match and the pair struggled about the tent.

The second stick of the explosive was in Rowland's hip pocket. His brother got the upper hand and threw him to the ground. The dynamite struck a stone and exploded, hurling the youths several feet, mangle Rowland frightfully and tearing Martin's hand from his wrist. Other campers took Rowland to a hospital, but he died within an hour.

SOCCIALIST PLATFORM.

The Socialist party platform of Ohio county, adopted at the Socialist convention at Hartford, Ky., July 19, 1913:

The Socialist party of Ohio county declares that it is the only true workingman's party.

We condemn all other political parties because they all uphold the profit system, which robs labor to enrich a few individuals.

We therefore announce our endorsement of the National Socialist Party Platform of 1912, and pledge ourselves, if elected, to use every effort in our power to carry out the same as far as any one county can possibly do so.

We first, last and all the time declare our loyalty to the laboring man and to union labor especially. Unlike the other political parties, we do not foolishly promise to control privately while trying to carry out the National Party Platform; we promise the voters of Ohio county, if elected, some relief by using every effort in our power to obtain the following:

1st. As a county official or any other office-holder is of no more value to society than the laboring man who produces all of the necessities and luxuries of life, we promise to fill the various offices for at least one-fifth less than the present officials are paid for same.

2d. We promise to make a sworn statement of all work performed and of the county's financial standing every six months.

3d. We declare that the Federal Government must own and control the tobacco market and all other privately owned properties that rob labor.

4th. We stand for an eight-hour work day, a workingman's compensation law, a corrupt practices act, and rigid economy in county and State administration of public affairs.

5th. We declare for the abolition of the State and county Board of Supervisors, and that the Magistrate in his respective district, be empowered to act in that capacity.

6th. For the repeal of the hunter's license and the dog tax.

7th. For an income tax, so that the millionaires will have to pay their part.

8th. For the initiative, referendum and recall, or direct legislation.

For any further information in regard to what we stand for, we refer you to the National Socialist Party Platform of 1912.

GIRL "FORGETS" HERSELF IN STREETS OF BIG CITY

Suddenly Became Dizzy—Remembering, She Lost Her Own Identity.

Denver, July 24.—Suffering complete loss of memory, a young woman dressed in mourning is a charge of the Denver police.

She sequestered Patrolman Benbow at a downtown corner this afternoon, told him she had forgotten all about herself, and asked him to help her. Benbow took her to Police Headquarters. Except that she was registered at the Brown Palace Hotel as "Miss Grace L. Irving, New York City," her identity is lost.

Her dress is rich, her manners and bearing refined. In her hand she carried a leather bag containing $28 and a memorandum written on Brown Palace stationery, reading as follows:

"Engage sleeper—Sante Fe—Seventeenth and Welton streets. Telegraph Constance."

Under the memorandum was written the name of Fred G. Moffat, Vice President of the First National Bank, and the office number of the Equitable Life Assurance Society, in the Equitable Building.

Moffat could not remember having seen her before. Employees of the Equitable Company also failed to recognize the woman. William N. Rector, assistant manager of the Brown Palace Hotel, said she had registered there at 8:30 Monday night. She had only a small valise with her.

She is still at the Brown and will be cared for there while the work of "locating" her goes on. According to her story, she was standing on the corner where she approached the policeman when she suddenly became dizzy. When the spell wore off she had "forgotten" herself.

Insatiable Curiosity.

"He disappeared one day and stayed away five years. Recently he reappeared and his wife took him back."

"Are they happy now?"
"No; he says she's unreasonable about trifles."

"How so?"
"She wants to know where he was during those five years."

HOW HE FOUND A CURE
USING SIMPLE METHOD

A young Louisville mechanic came into the Health Car Exhibit of the Kentucky Tuberculosis Commission when it was first opened.

"Good exhibit here. Do I look like I had tuberculosis?"

"Not very much," the attendant replied.

"Well, seven years ago two doctors told me I had it and that I had only a few months more to live. My wife had just died from the disease, too. I went to the third doctor, in a little town over in Eastern Kentucky, and he said he could cure me."

"What did the doctor tell you you must do?" asked the attendant.
"Told me I had got to do exactly what he said! He didn't give me any medicine to speak of, but followed just about the line of treatment you teach here. For three weeks he wouldn't let me lift my hand to do anything I could keep from doing. He told me what I could eat; gave me lots of eggs and milk; made me stay out-doors all day and sleep with all my windows open at night. In three weeks I was enough better so that I began to do a little work again; and I've been at it ever since. Of course, I ain't what you'd call robust; but still I'm in pretty fair shape and manage to do a day's work every day."

"My wife and I had one child, a boy a year old when the mother died. Folks said that 'of course with consumptive parents, he could never live. I had to take care of him after his mother died; a lot of work, and I don't suppose I did it as well as a woman could. I've taken care of him in just the same way that I've taken care of myself and now he's just as healthy and strong as any other eight-year old boy. Don't tell me that the kids have got to inherit consumption if their parents have it."

PUTTING UP TOMATOES.

Chili Sauce.—Twelve ripe tomatoes, four medium size onions, two green peppers; one cupful of cider vinegar, four tablespoonfuls of salt, two teaspoonfuls of allspice, two teaspoonfuls of cloves. Run all these through a food chopper, and boil all together until the ingredients are tender, but not "mushy." Seal in sash bottles or jars while hot.

Tomato Catsup.—One bushel ripe tomatoes, one-half gallon cider vinegar, 13 medium size onions, one-half pint of salt; one-half teaspoonful of cayenne pepper, two ounces each of cloves and allspice, three tablespoonfuls of black pepper. Boil the tomatoes until soft, and run through a colander; have fresh, good spices, ground, and add to the pulp and boil all together for two hours, stirring frequently to keep from scorching when it thickens. Strain through a sieve and bottle boiling hot.

Tomato Jelly.—Cut one peck of green tomatoes in pieces and boil until soft; strain, adding two cupfuls of sugar to one cupful of the juice, then boil for twenty minutes, adding one slice of lemon to each cup of juice.

Tomato Mustard.—One peck of green tomatoes, one-fourth peck of sliced onions, one pound ground mustard; vinegar sufficient. Slice the tomatoes thin, sprinkle with salt (a teaspoonful is enough) and let stand over night; in the morning drain and squeeze out the juice. Run onions and tomatoes through a food chopper, then put in the porcelain kettle with the mustard and vinegar and boil steadily until it is thick as catsup, then pack in jars and seal. One quart of vinegar is the usual amount used to a peck of tomatoes.

BURNED TO DEATH IN CONVICT FARM "CAGE"

Negro Prisoners Literally Trapped Like Flies In Antiquated Jail.

Jackson, Miss., July 24.—Trapped by the flames in the second floor of an antiquated convict "cage," or jail, thirty-five negro prisoners were burned to death at the Oakley convict farm, twenty miles from here, late last night.

While the flames ate away the only stairway leading to the second floor the prisoners tore vainly at the bars that covered the jail windows. Their screams brought prison attaches, but the flames drove back members of the rescue party.

The convicts worked in the cotton fields of the State farm, and were housed in the "cage" at night.

The wooden cage in which the convicts were confined was built ten years ago from old lumber taken from the penitentiary building in Jackson when that structure was destroyed to make room for the new State house. It was a two-story building, with only one means of entrance, and a narrow stairway leading from the first floor to the second. Hay, corn and molasses were stored on the first floor.

Except on the Parchman farm, all of the cages in which prisoners are confined are of similar construction and without any fire fighting facilities.

Last night's disaster has brought forth another volley of criticism against the members of that body, C. C. Smith, W. A. Montgomery and Leroy Taylor, are now under indictment for malfeasance in office. Col. Montgomery is on trial now. C. C. Smith, Chairman of the board, was convicted last week of grafting and given a five-year sentence in the penitentiary.

Science and the Milkman.

Housekeeper: "What makes you so late with the milk these mornings?"

Milkman: "Well, you see, Mum, the pure food law don't allow us more than twenty-five million bacteria to the gallon, and you wouldn't believe how long it takes to count the little devils." —[August Lippincott.]

There's a Great Day Coming.

The Dover News thus pictures a "good time coming:"

"The day is fast approaching when the girl who wants a real husband will sidetrack the champion cigarette sucker and the champion golf player, and fall to the arm of the champion corn-grower who can make an acre of ground cough up 200 bushels. Likewise, the time is coming when the wise young man will no longer seek a wife from among the ultra-hobbled piano pounders, but will cast his eye to the sweet-faced maid who can coax 800 quarts of tomatoes from one-tenth of an acre of ground, put 'em up so they will keep sweet and then cook 'em to a queen's taste."

COMPETITION VERSUS CO-OPERATION.

(By William H. Cundiff.)

There is nothing crude in the Socialist idea that co-operation is better for man than competition is, and that the unity of collective interests is more potent for human good than individualism is. Working jointly and untied together, having economic interests in common, actuated by the social impulse, which finds its inception in knowledge that social service and co-operative effort build each and all up to a higher moral, industrial and social plane, every member of the coming Socialist Co-Operative Commonwealth will labor incessantly for the Commonwealth, which will include himself and all the other factors of a socialized society.

Competition which signifies the coarseness, crudeness, contention and cozening of individualism, wastes resources, natural and artificial, destroys opportunity and efficiency, embitters life, wrecks hope and drives to insanity and suicide. Every day the papers are telling of wrecked and ruined lives, and of suicide and insanity—the awful fruits of our individualistic, capitalistic, and competitive society.

Gregariousness, socialization, co-operation, is mighty in life. Indeed, all great human achievements are collective, co-operative.

Collectivism is powerful, because of numbers and unity. Individualism is weak, because of individuals and disunion.

Because of the competition among laborers for jobs, the capitalists, who, being wiser than the laborers, co-operate for their mutual good, see to it that wages are cut down to starvation rates; and, since the wages have been thus reduced, as a matter of course, consumption is reduced, and this reduced consumption, caused by the competitive wage run to the point of starvation, forces the capitalists to cease production till consumption overtakes it (production.)

In short, the competitive wage causes under-consumption, and under-consumption causes under-production. Isn't the capitalist system insane? This is one of the beauties (?) of competition and the capitalist system.

Were production for use, instead of for profit, there would be no under-consumption. But, then, this would be Socialism—and all the wise (!) fools are "agin it."

HIGHER COURT AND WEBB LAW

What the Said Law Really Stands For.

NOT A PROHIBITION MEASURE

Law Never Contemplated Prohibiting Shipment For Personal Use.

WHAT THE AUTHORITIES SAY

Statements to the effect that the Court of Appeals has knocked a hole in the Webb Bill, or practically destroyed it, are common in the newspapers over the State. There seems to be a popular misunderstanding of the provisions of the bill. Stripped of circumlocution, its provisions are as follows:

"That the shipment * * * of intoxicating liquor * * * from one State * * * into any other State * * * which is intended by any person interested therein to be received, possessed, sold or in any manner used, either in the original packing or otherwise in violation of any law of such State * * * is hereby prohibited."

The act does not prohibit, as seems generally supposed, all shipments of intoxicating liquor from one State into another, but it merely prohibits a shipment which is intended by any person interested therein to be received, possessed, sold or used in violation of the law of the State.

Mr. Webb, the author of the bill has stated its purpose.

This bill has been criticized by some of our temperance friends, because it does not undertake to prohibit the shipment of whiskey for individual use.

"As long as the Supreme Court holds that liquor is a legitimate subject of commerce, as long as men have an appetite for liquor, and as long as the State does not prohibit the drinking of whiskey, I do not think a law will be passed prohibiting the shipment of whiskey for a man's own personal use. 'No bill does not in anywise affect the right of a man to buy whiskey for his personal use,' says Mr. Webb.

Senator Kenyon, who fathered the bill in the Senate said:

"This bill, if enacted, would not be a law to bring about prohibition. It would not be a law to stop personal use of intoxicating liquors, nor to prohibit the shipment of intoxicating liquors for personal use, or to stop the use of intoxicating liquors for sacramental purposes.

"There is no practical trouble with the personal use question. There is no attempt on the part of anybody to construct a law that shall prevent personal use or prevent shipment for personal use, and this bill does not do so."

The Rev. E. C. Dinwiddie, the Washington representative of the Anti-Saloon League, said this of the bill:

"This bill of itself interferes with no man's rights to import intoxicating liquors for the purpose of personal consumption.

"A man can have liquor shipped in and delivered at his residence for his own personal use."

The decision of the Court of Appeals was rendered in a case where it was agreed as a fact that the whiskey was shipped to a consignee to be sold or used in violation of law of the State. The Court of Appeals did not knock a hole in the Webb bill, but it simply construed the bill as it was construed by its author and the Washington representative of the Anti-Saloon League. The State of Kentucky has never passed a statute making it unlawful to receive or have in possession intoxicating liquor for one's own use.—[State Journal.]

HUMAN LIFE'S CHEAPNESS —A SAD COMMENTARY

Human life is very cheap. A Nashville, Tenn., woman went to a man's place of business and killed him. She was sentenced to spend five days in jail. If there is to be a single standard of morality, why should the "unwritten law" protect only one of two partners in sin? If the man had killed the woman is there any doubt that he would at least have been given life imprisonment? Does it make her sin any less to kill the man? The judge and jury in the case of the Nashville woman evidently thought her offense was less than that of a man who staggers in the street as a result of drinking whiskey. The charge of "drunk on the street" usually means "thirty days" if the defendant is too poor to pay a small fine. But to kill a partner in sin, if the slayer be a woman, is not, it seems, such a grave offense. If the woman was deserving of any punishment at all, surely she deserves more than a week-end in jail.—[Savannah (Ga.) News.]

A Card to the Public.

To the Democrats and voters of Ohio County:—By your solicitation I became a candidate for the Democratic nomination for County Judge, expecting to make an active campaign of the county, but for the past four weeks or more I have been confined to my room with a severe case of rheumatism, and while I am much better at present, under the advice of my physician, I will not enter actively into the primary campaign. I appreciate very highly all that my friends have done for me, but must now leave the campaign with them, assured if everyone does his best we are sure to win. I hereby return my sincere thanks to the voters of all parties who have assured me of their support in this campaign.

Respectfully,

Much Enticing Fiction in Lippincott's.

This is the time of year when a number of magazines get out "fiction numbers." Lippincott's, however, does not need to do this, as all its numbers are fiction ones. A timely special article and a little clever miscellany merely serve to add variety.

The August issue contains an unusually fine complete novel, entitled "The Egerton Standard," by Eleanor M. Ingram, a great favorite with Lippincott's readers. Her book, "From the Car Behind," had a tremendous sale, and a new novel by her is sure to be eagerly welcomed.

Will Levington Comfort, who wrote "The Road of Living Men" and other highly praised books, contributes a brilliant tale of love and business, called "The Crutstone Conquest." May Edgington's offering is "Prize-Fighter." Other noteworthy short-stories are "His Wife," by Temple Bailey; "When Ma Rodgers Broke Loose," by Hicks Bates Brodersen; and "The Gol-Darned Cow," by Rose Lombard. "An Antidote for Order," by Elizabeth Maury Coombs, is a fictional sketch of decided merit. "The New Neighbor," is by Charles C. Jones. The Short-Story Masterpiece is "The Cloak," by Gogol, the eminent Russian writer. There is an introduction by the Editor.

New Way of Preserving Eggs.

A new way of preserving eggs has been practiced in Havana recently which is said to be satisfactory. The eggs are placed in water of a temperature of about 95 degrees for a quarter of an hour. Then they are put on a net, held for five seconds in boiling water, and then, as quickly as possible, removed into cold water. The eggs, still wet, are laid on a clean cloth and allowed to dry by exposure to the air. They must not be dried off with a cloth or towel. When they are dry they are packed in a box with bran and ground peat. The box is stored in a cool place, out of reach of frost. Eggs thus preserved in June were found to be perfectly fresh next March.—[From Up-To-Date Farming.]

A WOMAN BLIND FOR FIFTY YEARS

Amazed At Scenes Which Eyesight Brought.

OPERATION RESTORED SIGHT

Sees Children For the First Time—Only Known By Touch Before.

SHE NEVER SAW HER HUSBAND

Chicago, July 25.—Mrs. Mary J. Welsh, the Michigan woman whose sight was restored by an operation after fifty years of darkness, today had a day of varying emotions at her home near Hillsdale, Mich. Now a feeble woman of sixty-six, she was sixteen when she last gazed on the faces of friends and relatives. Though she married at twenty-two, she never saw her husband. He has been dead for a number of years.

Almost all the friends she knew in her girlhood are dead or have moved away. Even the landscape had changed. She could recall little. The road and a hill appeared familiar. Her own home had received alternations which she familiarly knew by touch and step, yet when the home dawned on her vision it amazed her.

There are four of her six living children now grown men and women in the neighborhood. Two live in other States and two live in graves beside her husband. She was overwhelmed with emotion at the sight of her family. She knew the faces by sensitive fingers, but had never seen them until today.

After the first recovery from her emotion she asked to be taken to the graves of her husband and children. In the little country cemetery she looked upon the epitaph of the man she married and had never seen. Returning, she spent the day in a darkened room. Her eyes are not yet sufficiently strong to bear continuous light.

Mrs. Welsh's trip to the Chicago Hospital, where the operation was performed, had its inception in a chance visit made into Michigan a few months ago by the chaplain of the hospital, the Rev. Dr. M. W. Satterfield. In Hillsdale, Dr. Satterfield delivered an address. He told of the charitable work done by the hospital every year. The white haired blind woman heard him. At the close of the services she groped her way forward and clutched the minister's hands.

"Can you do anything for me?" she asked. "I only want to see my babies before I go. I have been praying—maybe."

In the fear that the operation for a double cataract might not prove successful, the authorities at the hospital kept it a secret when it was completed. Mrs. Welsh, her eyes heavily bandaged, was taken to a dark room and the entire hospital staff gathered about her. One by one the eye wrappers were removed.

The last bandage was taken off. A threadlike ray of light was left flicker through the blackness. Mrs. Welsh was told to open her eyes. The muscles of the lids were weak, but she managed to open them and the first ray of light in a half century started her.

Two days ago, at the completion of the operation, the woman was taken down to the loop district by one of the hospital nurses. She stared with awe at the huge buildings.

"I can't believe they are real!" she whispered. "The last buildings I saw were little farm houses back in Michigan. God made these huge piles of rock that you call skyscrapers. Little men never could have done it."

The Growth of the U. S.
In 1790 the population of the country was 3,925,625. In 1910 91,972,266, the growth being in the last 10 years about 16,000,000. The area in 1790, in square miles, was 417,170, in 1910 over 3,000,000. Number of miles of railroads in 1790 none; in 1910 250,000. Number of post-offices in 1790, 75; in 1910, about 60,000. The population of New York City in the year 1790 was 49,401; in 1910 it was 4,766,833. Thus it will be seen that New York City alone in 1910 had a much larger population than the entire country had in the year 1790.—[New York Times.]

If, however, in the wisdom of the Democrats at the August primary, another is selected, I pledge my hearty support to the nominee, whoever he may be. With best wishes for the numerous friends who solicited and have so nobly stood by me in this race for the nomination, I will close by saying that if each one of my friends will work from now until the close of the polls the second of August, I do not fear the result.

"But that is not the question, my boy," said the father. "Can you live with her?"—[August Lippincott's.]

STOMACH TROUBLE FOR FIVE YEARS

Majority of Friends Thought Mr. Hughes Would Die, But One Helped Him to Recovery.

Pomeroyton, Ky.—In interesting advices from this place, Mr. A. J. Hughes writes as follows: "I was down with stomach trouble for five (5) years, and would have sick headache so bad, at times, that I thought surely I would die. I tried different treatments, but they did not seem to do me any good. I got so bad, I could not eat or sleep, and all my friends, except one, thought I would die. He advised me to try taking other medicines. I decided to take his advice, although I did not have any confidence in it.

Thedford's Black-Draught, and quit

I have now been taking Black-Draught for three months, and it has cured me—haven't had those awful sick headaches since I began using it.

I am so thankful for what Black-Draught has done for me."

Thedford's Black-Draught has been found a very valuable medicine for derangements of the stomach and liver. It is composed of pure, vegetable herbs, contains no dangerous ingredients, and acts gently, yet surely. It can be freely used by young and old, and should be kept in every family chest.

The weeds and rubbish are almost "taking" the streets and sidewalks of Hartford in many places. The city "dads" seem to not care.

The Bull Moose and the Elephant have been engaged in a lively shindy in Louisville lately. The scrap was almost worse than it was last fall.

Lost, strayed or stolen—one King road drag. Finder will please return to any one of the Ohio county magistrates and ask him what to do with it.

"What has become of the old barrel-stave hammock?" asks an exchange. Why, it probably was used for kindling to heat the water to wash one of the present generation's grandmothers, when she was a baby.

The Fordsville Argonaut, in introducing Mr. S. A. Bratcher to the voters of Ohio county, says "Mr. Bratcher lives on a farm near Hartford." This is news to us. We were not aware that the town of Hartford was divided up into farms.

We now need safe and sane auto driving throughout the country as much as we need a safe and sane Fourth of July—more so, according to frequency of the event. Let the motorists join with the common citizenship in the accomplishment of this good purpose.

The coming primary election has created only mediocre interest in this county, so far, but the day will probably be one of the biggest the county ever saw when it arrives, as there is considerable rivalry among the candidates of the two parties. Let us hope that it will pass off without any sort of trouble.

On next Saturday will occur the big State Primary Election throughout Kentucky and no doubt it will be a great day. It will be the first event of the kind ever pulled off in the State and much interest is centered in it. In this respect the day will probably equal the regular November election. It is to be hoped that the day will pass off peaceably and that the best men of the two dominant parties will be nominated for the respective offices. Then let a clean campaign follow and the voters will have a fine chance for the exercise of their suffrage.

The slogan is: "Swat the fly—kill him!" because, it is said, this insect carries microbes about his person. But is a fly less dangerous after he is dead, unless his carcass is immediately burned? Do the microbes continue to live on his corpse and get scattered in the air? These questions naturally suggest themselves at seeing thousands of dead flies lying on fly paper and other thousands cooped up in fly cages or traps. Does it do any good to catch or kill a fly, unless he is immediately annihilated, so far as microbes are concerned?

It seems the general consensus of opinion that Uncle Sam will finally have to go over into Mexico, set things right and assume a sovereignty over that country which will assure a peaceful and progressive sort of government. After many years of internecine strife and petty wars, it is clearly shown that Mexico will now never get to the point of governing itself. The various warring factions there will not permit it. But Uncle Sam's job is not nearly so easy as it sounds or looks. It involves questions of international law which are complex and the final happy result would be slow of completion.

The newspapers just now are full of advice to the voters to nominate "a good, straight ticket, of good men," and assuring their readers that with such a ticket, "victory will certainly be ours." This is good advice, and the sentiment is also good. But who is to be the judge, among many candidates, as to whom of the lot, embodied as a whole, would constitute a "good, straight ticket?" There are possibly nearly as many opinions as there are voters, and while they are all good men, many would not agree as to exactly the same choice. We are resting our faith in the ability of the Democratic voters to make the proper choice. However, it is very important that each Democrat in the county go to the polls next Saturday and vote.

Thanks, Colonel.

The Hartford Republican in its issue of Friday says:

Under the head, "Baby's Cradle" Editor Matthews, of The Herald, this week's issue, has a splendid editorial which no one can read without being benefited, or without feeling a heaviness near the heart strings.

A Card.

To the Democratic Voters of Ohio County:—It has afforded me great pleasure to meet so large a number of the Democratic voters and have personal talks with them in my canvass. I am sorry that it has been impossible for me to see all the Democrats in the county. I have visited almost every precinct, but could not make a thorough canvass in some. I want to say to the Democratic voters and especially to those whom it has not been my pleasure to meet, that I have always not only been a firm believer in Democratic principles, but have stood by and upheld them with my vote and voice, and have been an earnest worker for the cause of Democracy ever since before I was old enough to vote. I am a Goebel Democrat in Kentucky and a Bryan Democrat in national politics, and have fought for the supremacy of the principles as advocated by these matchless leaders whenever the issue has been presented. I have been a resident of Beaver Dam for the last 16 years, a practicing attorney for 12 years and am now serving my second term as Police Judge of Beaver Dam.

If the good Democrats of the county think that I am the man to carry their standard to victory in November for the office of County Attorney, and think that I could lend more strength to the party ticket than my opponents, then I earnestly and sincerely ask you to endorse me on Saturday, August 2, and I shall use every honest and honorable endeavor to procure my election, and that of the rest of the ticket. But if you feel that I am not the strongest man to make the race in November and that I would be defeated, whereas one of my opponents would be elected, I wish to say to the Democrats that in that case I feel that it would be your duty to nominate that party who in your judgment would make the strongest fight in November, and your choice shall be my choice, and I shall work as hard for the election of the nominees of the party as if I were the nominee myself.

Yet if the Democrats choose to nominate and the people to elect me to the office of County Attorney, I shall give my whole time and attention to the duties of that office and seek to co-operate with the other financial officers of the county in introducing some reforms in the handling of the county's affairs which I think would be greatly to the benefit of the tax-payers and the county.

Very truly,
J. M. PORTER.

A Card.

In presenting my claims to the Democrats of Ohio county for the nomination for Jailer, I wish to say that I was born and reared on a farm near Rosine, Ohio county, Ky., and now live on a farm, I, as well as all of my people, have always been Democratic workers and this being the first time I have ever offered for an office and feeling that this section of the county is entitled to a candidate and that same would be of some benefit to the ticket, and from the further fact that I was rendered unable to do hard manual labor about eight years ago on account of a severe attack of rheumatism, which materially disabled me, and having a wife and four children to support, I would take it as a special favor, if you can conscientiously do so, to give me your vote next Saturday. I want to now thank my many friends for their loyal support up to this time. I want to ask them to put forth their best efforts in my behalf from now until 4 o'clock next Saturday, August 2d, and I feel that our efforts will be successful.

However, if in the sound judgment of the party, another is selected as standard-bearer for the office of Jailer, I will be found on "the firing line," doing what I can for the success of the ticket in the final race in November.

Your friend,
JOHN G. KEITH.

A Card to the Voters.

To the Democratic Voters of Ohio County, Gentlemen:—I am sorry to tell you that at present I am disabled with a badly sprained ankle, and I guess I will have to give the balance of my race up to my friends to manage. I think I have the inside track for the nomination for the office of Jailer. I am neither able to ride or walk, so I will have to ask my friends to do me a favor and all come out and vote for me at the Primary. I appreciate your support and hope it will give me the nomination.

Respectfully,
HARDIN ASHLEY.

Statement From C. E. Smith

TO THE VOTERS:—

My attention has been called to the propositions set forth by one of my opponents as reasons why you should support him for County Attorney instead of myself. Lest some should construe my silence in the premises as indicating that I do not favor administrative policies that inure to the most good to the people, I will briefly state my position concerning a few matters most vitally affecting the interests of the people of Ohio county.

I favor the payment of every cent of the county's indebtedness, most of which was owing when the fiscal affairs were turned over by the Democrats eight years ago, at the earliest date possible, consistent with the proper maintenance of the public highways, bridges and other public utilities.

I am in favor of the county's receiving full value in labor or material for every dollar spent and I have never counseled, advised or approved a different policy.

I favor rigid enforcement of the penal laws to the end that the people may be safe and secure in person and property and that they may meet, commune and pursue their usual avocation without fear of hindrance or molestation from violators of the law.

I earnestly solicit your support next Saturday, believing that you have that degree of confidence in me as would warrant you in entrusting the duties devolving upon the County Attorney to me for another four years.

nation for County Attorney, and the latter candidate for the Democratic nomination for Assessor, were pleasant callers at The Herald office Monday.

Dr. Claude Wilson, Osteopath, will begin July 15th making trips to Hartford. He will be in Hartford at Commercial Hotel every Tuesday and Friday from 12 o'clock noon until 7 p. m. 2814

Miss Katie Pendleton entertained a few of her friends Wednesday evening in honor of Misses Ruth Thomas and Robbie Barnard, of Madisonville. It was a very pleasant occasion.

Miss Gladys Duke, who underwent an operation in Louisville several days since for appendicitis, arrived in Hartford recently to spend some time with her brother, Mr. Ramey E. Duke.

Eq. J. D. Holbrook, Livla, Route 2, candidate for the Democratic nomination for Sheriff; W. W. Render, Willpoint, Texas; W. D. Luce and Mrs. S. K. Cox, city, gave The Herald pleasant calls Friday.

Mr. O. W. Wallace, who has recently completed his course in the Bowling Green Normal, will begin his school at what is known as the Lower Point District, this county, next Monday.

Mr. J. T. Felix went to White Plains Saturday where he will visit his nephew and niece, Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Herring, and other friends for a few days. He will also take in a day or two of the Madisonville Fair.

Mr. W. W. Render and family, of Willpoint, Texas, who have been visiting Mr. Render's parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Render, Hartford, as well as other relatives and friends, since the Fourth of July, left for home Monday.

Mrs. E. L. Miller, of Chicago, who has been visiting her children and mother, Mrs. Jennie D. Alexander, city, will leave to-day for her home, accompanied by her daughter, Miss Mary Spindling, who will make her mother a few weeks' visit.

Messrs. C. P. Turner, city, and John G. Keith, Horse Branch, each candidates for the Democratic nomination for Jailer, and C. C. Hines, Olanton, Route 1, candidate for the Democratic nomination for Assessor, were pleasant callers at The Herald office Friday.

There was a surprise birthday dinner given at the home of Mr. James N. Boyd, near Centertown, July 27th, in honor of his 52d birthday. Messrs. Will, Tom and Buck Boyd and Will Igleheart furnished music with their string band. All present report an enjoyable time.

Mr. W. G. Duncan, Jr., wife, son and daughter, of Greenville, Ky., arrived in Hartford last Saturday morning. They came over in their automobile. Mr. Duncan returned home in his car Sunday afternoon. Mrs. Duncan and children will make her aunt, Mrs. F. L. Felix, a visit.

Messrs. S. E. Bennett, Hartford, Route 3, candidate for the Democratic nomination for Sheriff, and L. B. Tichenor, Hartford, Route 5, candidate for the Democratic nomination for County Judge, gave The Herald a pleasant call while in town Monday.

Nothing new has developed in the oil field during the past week. The drilling is going steadily on and some of the wells will soon be brought in. The machinery for sinking a well three miles northeast of Olanton is being unloaded at Friedland and hauled to that point.

Hereafter I will sell for cash, except by special agreement. Will make prices that will pay the trade to pay cash. Cutting out delivery service and credit. This will enable me to give you much better prices and merchandise.

Mrs. Jennie Miller returned home from Oklahoma Saturday after a five-weeks visit to her brother, Dr. Willis Short, of Durant, and her son and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. C. O. Lively, of Achille. Mrs. Miller reports a very pleasant visit. Dr. Short, who was quite ill when she went to Oklahoma, is very much improved in health. He is now sojourning at Hot Springs, Ark.

Messrs. Ellis Brothers and Bell Brothers, of near Rumsey, McLean county, Ky., contractors to haul the McHenry timber for Jno. A. Reits & Sons, are now at the E. T. Williams landing with forty head of stock, six wagons and about twenty men, preparing for the work. Also Mr. Wehman, with several teams and several men, is placing several hundred pile there for the Government dam near Henderson, Ky.

Dr. C. Ross Bennett, a recent graduate of the Chicago Medical College, and who recently took the State Medical Board examination, with high honors, received his certificate some days since and has located at Graham, Muhlenberg county, where he has formed a partnership with Dr. Edge for the practice of his profession. Dr. Bennett is far above the average young physician and we predict for him a bright future.

This being the last issue of The Herald before the primary, cards of various candidates will be found on pages 3, 4, 5 and 8 of The Herald this week. Those on third page are: Lon Smith and J. P. Miller; fourth page, J. M. Porter, J. L. Massie, John G. Keith, Hardin Ashley, S. E. Bennett and C. E. Smith; fifth page, John B. Wilson, L. B. Tichenor, J. P. Miller, J. L. Brown and M. R. BASEBALL.

The Rockport team appeared at East End Park Saturday afternoon for a return engagement with our Oil Magnates and the crowd present was treated to a first-class exhibition of the national sport. The identity of our opponents proved somewhat of a surprise to a number of fans, as it had been advertised that Pleasant Ridge would line up against the locals, but the management was notified early in the day that the Davless county aggregation would be unable to be on hand on account of illness in the family of one of their star players. However, we had perhaps equally as good a game with our Green River neighbors, Fulkerson and Garrett pitched for the visitors, while Gary performed as backstop. Manager Casebier selected Rickard and Hunter to toil for the locals. The contest was rather a close affair. Hartford started off with a rush and amassed two counters in the first session, but the visitors came back and forged one point ahead in their half of the third. Then the Oil Magnates fell on the Rockport slinger with a vengeance and pounded out three more tallies. After E. Barnett had reached 1st safely on a hit to right and stolen 2d, with two down, A. Barnett hit one too hot for the pitcher and when the throw to 1st got by, he took 2d while Bro. Ess was scoring. Hunter slammed a double over center and A. Barnett scored. "Mutt" took 3d on a passed ball and, after Spalding had walked, Marks lined a hot one to short, who muffed and runners were safe at 1st, 3d and home. The next man up whiffed before Hartford could do any more damage. In the fifth our boys again got on their slugging toes and finished up their scoring when they counted three times more on hits by A. Barnett, Spalding, Marks, Robertson and Thomas. Toward the last of the game the Rockport boys began to crawl up on us but, though they got uncomfortably close, they were not able to turn the trick in the allotted time. They ran in two scores in the seventh and made their final tally in the eighth, when the former Magnate, Ned Turley, was safe at 1st on a classy single near the right foul line, just out of reach of the initial sacker, stole 2d, and scored on a double to left by Gary.

Finest Feed on the Market.
Arab Feed is the best Alfalfa Feed on the market. Contains no screenings or any foreign worthless material. Consists of whole oats, cracked corn, alfalfa and molasses. Four pounds is a full ration for a horse at hard work—twelve pounds daily. Almost all other alfalfa feed takes 16 pounds daily. Arab Feed is cheaper than corn and oats alone, and will reduce your hay bill at least one-half. Don't take my word for it—try one bag and be convinced. For sale by W. E. JNO. B. WILSON.

I have canvassed the Democratic voters of the county the best I could and now submit my claim to the nomination to the will of the people next Saturday. I have been fair to my opponents and to every one. I feel I merit the nomination for the office of County Judge. If it is given me I will thankfully receive it and use all honorable means to be elected, and if elected, I will devote all my time and energies to its successful conduct and to the best interests of all the people.

To the Democratic Voters of Ohio County, Dear Friends:—Since my announcement as a candidate for County Judge I have almost continuously canvassed in behalf of my candidacy. Have been in every precinct in the county. Have had hundreds of men to pledge me their unqualified support, for all of which I am very proud. Nevertheless I have this to regret, that the time is so short that it will be impossible for me to see every one. Nevertheless I urgently solicit your support and in return for your suffrage I promise if nominated and elected, to make you a fair and upright Judge and if defeated, I will say "not my will but thine be done," after which I will do all that is in my power for my opponent as well as the whole Democratic ticket. I am humbly and patiently awaiting your decision in this matter. I remain your obedient servant.

To the Voters of Ohio County

Mistakenly or otherwise the report has been circulated through the country that I have withdrawn from the race for the Democratic nomination for County Judge, and seems to have caused considerable confusion in many places. I have not withdrawn, and I shall not, but will be a candidate until the polls close on August 2nd.

I hope my friends will do all they can to correct this error, and see that I do not lose by its circulation.

Thanking my friends for what they can do for me under the circumstances, I remain yours very truly.

J. P. MILLER.

We, the attending physicians of J. P. Miller, state that we have been attending him for the last six weeks for sciatica, and that he is improving and has been for several days, and the attack has not been so severe as a preceding one from which he suffered in the other leg some eight years ago. We further state that in our opinion, he will be able to resume his ordinary duties in a short time.

To the Democrats of Ohio County:—I wish to say, with a heart full of gratitude, that I certainly appreciate the courtesies and kindnesses shown me while in this race for County Court Clerk, by the good people of Ohio County.

I have endeavored at all times to conduct this campaign in an honorable way, and if nominated, I will continue the same policy. I have been in every precinct and have made the best canvass possible. To those whom I have been unable to meet, will say that I was reared on the farm and am now a farmer, and I know from experience the hardships of and the sacrifices that have to be made by the laboring man in order to educate himself or his children.

I think I am qualified for the office I seek, and am familiar with the duties of the same, and if honored by your support, will feel very grateful to you. I feel that every vote gained now will only add to my plurality.

I will do all I can in an honorable way for the success of the whole ticket in November, whomsoever its nominees may be. Again I thank you.

Most respectfully,
J. L. BROWN.

M. R. MADDON.

Beaver Dam, Ky., July 28, 1913.
To the Democrats of Ohio County:—I wish to say that it would have been a pleasure to me to have met every Democratic voter in Ohio county. However, this was impossible, although I visited every voting precinct in the county, and now I take this method of soliciting the consideration of those whom I have not had the pleasure to meet. I want to be the nominee of the Democratic party for Assessor of Ohio county. Having always affiliated with the Democrats of this county and never having asked any political favor, I feel entitled to submit my claim on the condition that I am seeking only the support of those who believe that in supporting me for this nomination they are giving the Democratic ticket the greatest strength, but if in the opinion of a majority of the Democratic voters of the county, one of my opponents would be better qualified for the responsible duties of this office and more capable of winning in November, then I faithfully assure the choice of my party my hearty and active support. But when the votes are counted should I be your choice, I will do everything honorable in my power to secure the election of the entire Democratic ticket in November.

Yours truly,
M. R. MADDON.

THE MAKING OF A BALL PLAYER

In One of the Big Leagues Of To-Day.

HIS EXPERIENCE RECOUNTED

First Got Swelled Head, Then Went Down—Was Finally Restored.

MAKING THE PITCHER PITCH

In the August American Magazine Hugh S. Fullerton writes an article entitled "The Making of a Big Leaguer." It is a true story of the development of one of the greatest ball players in the United States as told by himself to Mr. Fullerton. This player, of course, began the game as a boy and passed through all the stages from amateur to minor league teams and then into the big league. In this early experience he became a great victim of the "swelled head," and finally lost his position on the big league team. After many vicissitudes he lost his "swelled head" and got into the big league again, where, to-day, at thirty-four years of age, he is one of the great veterans of the game. Of his final entrance into the big league he says:

"In June, I was purchased for a large sum by the club which then was the strongest in the country. I didn't say a word about money, although the club paid over four thousand dollars for me. The new manager sat down with me in the hotel the night I joined his team.

"All I want," he said, "is for you to get out there and hustle and behave yourself. I've heard you're hard to handle, but I'll take a chance."

"You won't have any trouble with me," I assured him. "All I want is a chance to show that I can play."

"You'll get all the chance you want," he said quietly. "You're in the line-up to-morrow."

"Stage fright! Did you ever suffer it? I did that night. My nerves were jumping and a thousand times I figured out plays—yes, and made them—in planning what I would do the next day.

"We were playing a game against a team which we figured we would have to beat out to win the championship. I pictured myself hitting home runs and making triple plays, and when I awoke in the morning I was nervous, n shaky, uncertain and scared ball player. In practice before the game, everything hit my way I either fumbled or threw wild, as my nerves were ragged. The crowd seemed to be sorry for me—when they weren't mocking. It was a relief when the game started.

"I was second at bat in the line-up, on a foreign field and with a hostile crowd roaring. The first man filed out. 'Wait him out. Take two,' said the manager as I picked up a bat. The first pitched ball cut the heart of the plate. I saw it all the way up and knew it would have been easy to hit it hard, yet I let it go. 'Strike one,' the umpire yelled, and the crowd howled. I was cool as a Boston east wind. The second ball came whizzing up, straight over the plate with nothing on it, and I tried to hit it, yet let it go for the second strike. Then I settled to hit, expecting a curve ball. The curve went wide, a fast one went high and wide. I figured that the pitcher thought he had a sucker at bat and would curve one over. He came with a fast ball a foot high and I swung at it and struck out. My heart nearly got spiked as it sank into my toes going back to the bench.

"That's the boy," said the manager. 'Wait him out. Make him pitch.'

"I could have kissed him for those words. I went to short with my nerves steady and my system full of confidence. The first ball hit was a sizzler over second. I got the ball with one hand and there wasn't a chance to throw the runner out if I stopped to straighten up, so I threw without looking and without waiting, and plunged forward onto my face. The yell from the crowd told me the first baseman had caught it, and as I scraped the dust out of my eyes and trotted back to position, I felt at home. I wasn't excited nor elated, but the confidence that had carried me through the minor leagues came back with a rush and all fear was gone. I was a big leaguer—and I knew it. The next time at bat I crowded the plate, jockeyed with the pitcher, and watched. He whipped a curve inside the plate. I pretended to dodge and let the ball hit me. It hit hard and I squirmed, but as the manager bent over me, I winked at him and, letting him lift me, I limped down to first—and stole second on the first ball pitched, sliding clear around the baseman. On my third trip to the plate I cracked a clean hit over second base and, after being sacrificed to second, stole third, because I figured no one would expect a recruit to do that. In the club house that night the manager said, "You'll do, kid, if you don't get swelled." And I replied, "I've gone through that."

COMMISSION READY TO AID THOSE INTERESTED

The committee in charge of the summer campaign of the State Tuberculosis Commission has determined on a plan of concentrated effort looking toward the building of county hospitals for consumptives in those counties where a considerable amount of effort has already been made in educational campaigns. In a meeting at the Commission office recently the following resolution was passed:

"Whereas, It is believed that in carrying out the intention of the Act creating the Kentucky Board of Commissioners, it is advisable to concentrate our efforts in a few counties to the end of getting action at once by the fiscal courts, and, failing this, a vote of the people at the November election for the erection and maintenance of tuberculosis sanatoria,

"Resolved, That we at once take proper steps to aid the local associations, or interested individuals, in such counties as Daviess, Henderson, Mason, Fayette, or others that may develop, to bring about the desired result; that in Kenton county, where the preliminary steps have already been taken, we furnish such aid as seems advisable and is locally desired; that the aid may take the form of a tent and exhibit sent for the local fair, and an organizer to take charge of a publicity campaign, a nurse, funds for printed matter, and other necessary expenses."

Negotiations for the hiring of three or four experienced organizers for work of this sort have begun.

The Commission will be glad to receive requests for assistance from any Association, or interested group of individuals, for this work. Address the Commission at Frankfort, Ky.

A WORTHY INSTITUTION FOR HELP OF THE BLIND

The Kentucky Institution for the Education of the Blind is the eighth oldest in the Nation, founded in 1842, colored department opened in 1884.

Probably it is the most successful, having perfect sanitation, lowest death rate and never a fatal accident.

It is a part of the Educational System of the State; a FREE boarding school for the blind of school age; children do not have to be totally blind; all with defective eyesight, such as would prevent successful study in a seeing school, are eligible.

Girls are taught Writing (pencil, point, typewriting), Shopwork, Sewing (machine and hand), Spelling, Reading, Piano-tuning, Physiology, Music (vocal and instrumental), Knitting, Kindergarten, Harmony, History, Grammar, Geography (general and physical), English Literature, Drawing, Cooking and domestic duties, Arithmetic and Algebra. Boys are taught the same; also, Broom-making, Chair-caning, Mattress-making and Piano-making.

The graduates from the institution hold important positions in several States.

Those interested or needing help may write to W. H. Bartholomew, Secretary, Kentucky Institution for Education of the Blind, Louisville, Ky.

IMPORTANT QUESTIONS OFFICIALLY ANSWERED

By Attorney General Logan Concerning the Coming State Primary.

Several important questions having been raised recently in regard to voting in the coming primary election, some questions have been asked the Attorney General at Frankfort, and following is his reply:

In years of the 25th you submit several questions to this department in relation to the primary election law:

First—Have any known Socialists, where there is no registration, the right to vote in the primary of August 2d?

In answer I would state that a Socialist is not eligible to vote in the primary. No one can vote in the primary election except those who are members of the political parties that cast as much as 20 percent of the total vote of the State in the last election.

Second—Can the officers of an election deliver a Democratic ballot to a known Republican?

Answering this question, I beg to advise you that no voter has a right to vote any ticket or for any candidates except for the candidates of the party to which he belongs. The officers of an election should not deliver a Democratic ballot to a known Republican.

Third—When a Democrat presents himself to vote and is challenged, what election officer determines his eligibility?

Replying to this question, I beg to advise you that his right to vote would be determined by the full Board of Election officers exactly in the same manner as the right of a man to vote is determined in the general election.

Yours truly,
M. M. LOGAN,
Assistant Attorney General.

Value of Cow Peas.

Mr. C. S. Templeman, who is a very enthusiastic Farmers' Institute promoter, and a farmer willing to try once any of the latter day methods of farming, stated Saturday that when he laid his corn by a few days ago he planted 15 acres of it in cow peas, something he said he learned at the institute held here last fall. In planting your corn ground in cow peas it is claimed that you can raise corn year after year on the same piece of ground; each year the land gets better. The other advantage in sowing cow peas is that it makes fine feed and is especially good for the fattening of hogs.

WHISKEY DOESN'T BROWN TUBERCULOSIS GERM

The people who ask fool questions are often in evidence about tuberculosis exhibits as well as other similar places. Not long ago a man decidedly under the influence of liquor went into a tuberculosis exhibit in Kentucky, evidently with the intention of finding some sort of pleasant justification for his personal habits.

"Say, Doctor," he addressed the man in charge, "if a man smokes or chews a good deal won't that destroy all these tuberculosis germs that can get into his body?"

"No, that is not the case. We find that the germs of consumption will live just as readily in the lungs of a tobacco-user as in any other person, and they will be found in his sputum in the same way."

"Well, if a man will drink enough whiskey, won't that protect him?"

"No, that is even worse. A person who is a constant user of alcoholic drinks is rendered more susceptible to the attacks of tuberculosis and all other germ diseases than the total abstainer."

Apparently very much crestfallen, the visitor left and is now compelled to find some other excuse for his habit to render to his wife.

Kissing.

The Arabians shake hands six or eight times. Once is not enough. Should, however, they be persons of distinction, they embrace and kiss their own hands. In Turkey the greeting is to place the hand upon the breast, and bow, which is both graceful and appropriate. In Burmah, when a man meets a woman, he puts his nose and mouth close to her cheek and draws a long breath, as if inhaling a delicious perfume, but, strange to say, he does not kiss her cheek. A man is greeted in exactly the same way.

DON'T use a cough medicine containing opium or morphine. They constipate the bowels and do not cure, only stifle the cough. Examine the label and if the medicine contains these harmful opiates, refuse it. Foley's Honey and Tar Compound contains no opiates, is healing and soothing. Frank Young, Mgr., Wickwire Hotel, Hooper, Neb., says: "I recommend Foley's Honey and Tar Compound for coughs and colds and lost voice. I used it myself and for my children, and it is the only medicine that always does the work."

LOOKOUT INSECT POWDERS

WHAT MRS. HEN SAVETH

Good-bye, folks! I'm going to leave you. I don't know where I'll stop, but it will be with people who will take better care of me and use Lookout Insect Powders and Lice Killer than I need them. I may look funny to you, but I don't feel funny. In fact, I was never more serious and miserable in my life. The hen house is a perfect hell.

The lady hen next door to me died on her nest three days before hatching, equally eaten alive by lice and mites which you made no effort to get rid of. I stuck to my nest and hatched fourteen chicks, but it would have been better had they never been born, as the lice and mites got them all in less than three weeks.

Every other chicken on your place has either died or "run" away, and I'm going too—YOU BET!

GOOD-BYE, and may the lice and mites follow you home, and run you crazy, and may the Cruelty to Animals Society look you up.

SAM DAVIS, THE YOUTHFUL HERO

Who Gave His Life Rather Than Betray

CHARGE OF SUPERIOR OFFICER

Was Entrusted With Important Message, Captured and Executed.

HIS MEMORY WILL LIVE LONG

The story of how Sam Davis, the boy spy of the Confederacy, stood the supreme test of moral and physical courage is one which will never lose its interest nor its thrill to the descendants of the brave men who fought in the great Civil War.

Out of those stirring war times, when lives were held cheaply and deeds of bravery were common, come many chronicles and records of heroes who died for the common cause. But Sam Davis not only gave his life cheerfully and fearlessly for the cause he was serving, but to protect his superior officer.

When the war broke out, Davis, who was a mere boy, left school and enlisted in the first Tennessee Regiment. Two years later, because of his keen intelligence and soldierly qualities, he was assigned to a party of scouts under the command of Capt. Shaw. Shaw was a Confederate spy who was known within the Federal lines as Coleman. Posed as an itinerant doctor, he was able to gather considerable information, which he sent through the lines in care of one of his scouts.

On one occasion he selected young Davis to carry to General Bragg certain papers giving late and important news regarding the movements of the Federal forces. The Union men had become aware of the existence of spies in the camp, and the undertaking had assumed a most perilous aspect, as they were keeping a very sharp lookout.

Davis hid the dangerous document in his shoes, and with Colman's pass, started south for Bragg's headquarters. On his first day out he was run down and captured by the "Jay-hawkers," the famous Kansas Seventh Cavalry. The papers were discovered, and that night he was lodged in jail in Pulaski. On the same day Capt. Shaw himself had been captured and was a prisoner in the same town. Davis' reports were placed in the hands of General Dodge, the Federal Commander, who twice had him brought to headquarters, where he was urged to disclose the name of the one who had committed to him the captured messages. It was pointed out that his only hope for leniency lay in the disclosing of this information. This he refused to do. General Dodge, strongly touched by the boy's sense of honor and duty, pleaded hard with him, but Davis answered: "I will not tell where I got the information, and there is no power on earth that can make me tell. You are doing your duty as a soldier, and, if I have to die, I shall be doing my duty to God and my country."

Shaw could have saved Davis' life with a word, but his courage was evidently not of the same character as the boy's, for he remained silent.

On November 27, one week from the day of his capture, Davis was executed as a spy. Calmly and fearlessly, without sound of inspiring drum or cheer of trumpet, with no flag flying, with no comrade beside him, surrounded only by an impatient foe, he gave his life rather than to violate his sense of duty to his superior. His last Master Commissioner's Sale. Ohio Circuit Court, Kentucky. Mrs. Mary J. Hardin, et al., Plaintiffs, vs.

Ex Parte, Defendants.

By virtue of a judgment and order of sale of the Ohio Circuit Court, rendered at the June term, 1913, in the above cause for the purpose of paying the debts and settling the estate of William Hardin, deceased, and distributing the remaining proceeds amongst the parties in interest, after paying the costs herein, I will offer for sale by public auction at the court house door in Hartford, on Monday, the 4th day of August, 1913, about one o'clock p. m., upon a credit of six and twelve months, the following described property, to-wit:

All the timber over 8 inches at the stump on three certain tracts of land in Ohio county, Ky., belonging to the heirs of William Hardin, and known as the Trunnell tract, consisting of 122 acres, and being the same land conveyed by Trunnell to Hardin by deed recorded in book 44, page 545, Ohio County Clerk's office; also all of such timber on the Patterson tract containing 122 acres, and being the same land conveyed to W. M. Hardin by Patterson, as shown by deed recorded in deed book 33, page 351; also all of such timber on the Coffman tract, containing 110 acres, and owned by the heirs of W. M. Hardin, deed for which is recorded in deed book—, page—, commonly called the Davis land, lying on the Livermore public road, and all of which three tracts of land lie near Point Pleasant, in Ohio county, Ky.

It is further adjudged by the Court that there be sold all the coal rights and privileges in and to the 110-acre tract above described, excepting therefrom the 37 acres heretofore conveyed by F. O. Coffman to the Green River Coal Mining Company by deed of record in deed book 22, page 559, Ohio County Clerk's office.

The purchaser will be required to execute bond with approved security immediately after sale.

This 15th day of July, 1913.

E. E. BIRKHEAD, Master Commissioner. E. M. Woodward, Attorney.

Rid Your Children of Worms. You can change fretful, ill-tempered children into healthy, happy youngsters, by ridding them of worms. Tossing, rolling, grinding of teeth, crying out while asleep, accompanied with intense thirst, pains in the stomach and bowels, feverishness and bad breath, are symptoms that indicate worms. Kickapoo Worm Killer, a pleasant candy lozenge, expels the worms, regulates the bowels, restores your children to health and happiness. Mrs. J. A. Brislin, of Elgin, Ill., says: "I have used Kickapoo Worm Killer for years, and entirely rid my children of worms. I would not be without it." Guaranteed. All druggists, or by mail. Price 25c. Kickapoo Indian Medicine Co., Philadelphia and St. Louis. Sold by James H. Williams. (Advertisement.)

"A Clever Fellow."

No right-thinking man admires the dexterity of a pickpocket or the horsemanship of a highwayman. Why? Because each is an enemy to society. You would not mitigate their outlawry by saying, "but they are clever fellows." The term of "clever fellow" covers a multitude of sins with some folk. The man who uses an ignorant man, whether white or black, to do his underhanded work is a scoundrel, though you may write "clever fellow" all over his body in capital letters. The community ought to give him to understand that he is an "undesirable citizen." He is one of the men who ought to leave his country "for his country's good."

Land of Earthquakes.

Nearly 1,400 earthquakes are recorded annually in the whole of the Japanese Empire, and in Tokyo alone there are, on an average, 50 earthquakes that can be felt during the year, or about one a week.

Earthquakes occur in all regions adjacent to active volcanoes, as in the neighborhood of Tenerife, Vesuvius, Etna and Stromboli, which are simply the safety valves of a single earthquake district. So also Japan, Sumatra, Java and the islands of the East Indian Archipelago are liable to fearful earthquakes. (London Knowledge.)

CHINESE REVOLT AT PEKIN RULE

Throw Off Allegiance To Government.

TRACE HAS BEEN PARALYZED

Throughout Southern China By Present Revolutionary Movement.

REVOLT WILL BE SHORT-LIVED

Washington, July 24.—Americans in the revolting Southern provinces of China are calling for help.

Washington was notified to-day that Chingre Williams, at Peking, has called upon Rear Admiral Nicholson for a guard of marines from the Asiatic squadron. The marines are to be sent to Kuling, in the Kiang-si Province, which recently seceded from the Chinese Republic.

Martial law was proclaimed to-day in Kiang-si and Kiang-su Provinces, according to State Department reports.

At this time of the year Kuling is filled with Americans and other foreigners. The principal city of Kiang-su Province is Shanghai, which last week threw off its allegiance to the Peking Government.

It has become necessary to exercise extraordinary police powers in Peking in order to preserve order. The Consulate General at Canton reports that the action of the Provincial Government of Kwang-tung, in revolting against the Central Government, is strongly opposed by Chinese merchants, and that business practically is at a standstill.

Trade Is Paralyzed.

Canton, China, July 24.—Trade throughout Southern China has been paralyzed by the proclamation of the independence of the province of Kwang-tung.

The incident has created a feeling of great anxiety in this city. Stores have been closed and many of the merchants have telegraphed to shippers not to consign goods here for the present.

A great many people have left the city in junks and others have gone to the north on foot. Thousands more have flocked into the Portuguese colony of Macao and into Hongkong. Among the latter are many officials who have retired from their posts, carrying with them millions of dollars in silver and paper money.

There is a strong feeling of resentment throughout the southern provinces against the policy of Provisional President Yuan Shi Kai, but it is felt in most quarters that it will be impossible to resist him long, as he commands a large trained army, possesses money and has the support of the great Powers.

The fact that the merchants of Hongkong do not sympathize with the independence movement is regarded among foreign observers as a sign that the revolt will be short-lived.

To Herald Correspondents.

We print a list of subjects below which will be of much assistance to correspondents in writing for The Herald: Always send us accounts of deaths, birth, marriages, real estate deals, live stock sales, confagurations, accidents, condition of crops, unusual weather conditions, visiting abroad, (not neighborhood visits), social meetings, lodge and Equity meetings, church news, school news, conditions of roads, family reunions, (short accounts), curiosities, relics, robberies, murders, something good about people, anything of general interest. Accounts of birth-day dinners, whether sent in by correspondents or others, should be short, omitting names of the parties in attendance. Also, please send in all accounts of deaths and marriages as soon as possible, and do not wait till you send in your regular letter. Be sure and mail your letters so they will reach us on Mondays of each week. This is important.

Sympathetic Strike.

"What's the matter old chap?" asked one Londoner. "You look half starved."

"I am."

"Why don't you eat something?" "Can't get it. My wife's a militant suffragette and I'm on a sympathetic hunger strike."

SHOCKING GOWNS NOW SEEN IN LONDON TOWN

The other night I nearly swooned when my astonished eyes lighted upon a little lady whose dress was slit to the knee. She was wearing fantastic lace stockings so filmy in texture that the marvel is how on earth she ever got into them or out of them. Her dress was so tight that she could not put one foot before the other if it had not been slit. It was really a case of the glad knee meeting the glad neck. But nobody seemed to be startled. There is no knowing where the modish woman is going to stop in her revelations.

Not Cleopatra on her galley's deck Display'd so much of leg, nor more of neck.

It is this lack of discretion that often makes the new dances so indiscreet. The new fabrics worn by women are like gossamer, and the feminine spider goes about clad in cobwebs. Where is the satin ball gown that used to be stiff enough to stand up by itself? Where are the stately brocades and majestic velvets? The modern looms no longer weave these stalwart stuffs. Where is the ancient petticoat beneath which the little feet were wont to peep out like mice? It is no more. To speak of petticoat government is now an anachronism. (London Opinion.)

PANAMA CANAL IS NOW PRACTICALLY COMPLETED

It is reported in the paper that is called the official organ of the Panama Canal Commission that the canal was practically completed June 27, when the spillway of Gatun Lake was finally closed.

The spillway is at the center of the Gatun Dam and has permitted the escape of the water of the Chagres river during the work of construction. It is equipped to regulate the water, which is now at forty-eight feet above sea level. The summit level is to be eighty-five feet, and it is calculated that the required depth will be attained by December 1.

American work on the canal was started May 4, 1904. The failure of the old French company was announced about eight years after it began operations.

Early Symptoms.

"Yes," sighed the bride; "marriage makes a big difference."

Her mother-in-law laughed.

"Can one month's experience really have taught you so much wisdom? But, tell me, child," she added, "what has George been doing? Is anything wrong?"

"Oh, no," said the girl; "I don't think anything is wrong!" She hesitated for a minute. "But, d'you know," she continued, "when ever I sit on George's knee now, his foot goes to sleep ever so much more quickly than it used to!"

Great Weekly at a Low Price.

The Cincinnati Weekly Enquirer, a twelve-page paper recently transformed into the size and appearance of a daily, will be furnished in connection with the Hartford Herald at only $1.35 for the two papers. This price stands good on renewals for The Herald. The Weekly Enquirer is an ideal newspaper, containing a big variety of reading and is especially suited to the farming classes. It is Democratic and progressive. This is certainly a low price for a lot of good reading. (Herald-Adv.)

A MISTAKE

Made By Many Hartford Residents.

Many people in a misguided effort to get rid of kidney backache, rely on plasters, liniments and other makeshifts. The right treatment is kidney treatment and a remarkably recommended kidney medicine is Doan's Kidney Pills. Hartford is no exception.

The proof is at your very door. The following is an experience typical of the work of Doan's Kidney Pills in Hartford:

Daniel King, Hartford, Ky., says: "I suffered intensely from pains in my sides and in the small of my back. Doan's Kidney Pills had been used by friends with such fine results that I thought I would try them. I got them at the Ohio County Drug Co. One box permanently cured me."

AMERICAN GIVEN CHANCE TO RUN FOR HIS LIFE

And Was Badly Wounded—Was Investigating a White Slave Case.

El Paso, Tex., July 26.—Charles B. Dixon, of San Diego, Cal., United States Immigration Inspector, was given "ley fuga" (prisoner given a chance to run for his life) by the Mexican federal soldiers to-day. He was shot in the back and may die. Dixon was in Juarez on official business investigating a white slave case, when arrested by a federal band, who started marching him away from the city toward the foothills where there were recently many executions. He started to run, got half a block away, was fired on and hit in the back.

In a statement to the American officials in Juarez, Dixon said he believed the soldiers, who he said were drunk, were going to shoot him. He believes the negro he went to quiz bought drinks for the soldiers and suggested his arrest. He says he agreed to go to the commandant's office, but when the soldiers headed for the hills he broke and ran. He had on a khaki suit and thinks the soldiers may have suspected him as an American spy. The bullet entered the small of his back, passing through his stomach. Dixon is a Texan.

"Looks Serious," Says Bryan.
Washington, July 26.—"It looks like a serious case," said Secretary Bryan to-night, in commenting on the Dixon affair at Juarez. He has called for an official investigation.

Take Plenty of Time to Eat.

There is a saying that "rapid eating is slow suicide." If you have formed the habit of eating too rapidly you are most likely suffering from indigestion or constipation which will result eventually in serious illness unless corrected. Digestion begins in the mouth. Food should be thoroughly masticated and insalivated. Then when you have a fullness of the stomach or feel dull and stupid after eating, take one of Chamberlain's Tablets. Many severe cases of stomach trouble and constipation have been cured by the use of these tablets. They are easy to take and most agreeable in effect. Sold by all dealers.

SPECIAL NOTICE

In regard to OBITUARIES, RESOLUTIONS OF RESPECT, &c.

THE HARTFORD HERALD HAS ADOPTED

a new rule in regard to Obituaries, Resolutions of Respect, Cards of Thanks, &c., whether written at the behest of lodges, churches or individuals, and that is, we shall charge at the rate of two cents per line for all such articles, except obituary poetry, which will be one cent per word, straight. This is the smallest rate we charge for anything and is only one-fifth of our regular rate.

The amount, in cash or stamps, must accompany each article, or it will not be printed. Six words average a line in ordinary reading and every separate character or initial letter counts as a word. The heading and the signature both count one line each, even if they are only a word or two.

All obituary poetry, straight through, one cent per word.

Contributors please remember.

One hundred and ten divorces have been granted in Nashville since July 1.

A Card.

In concluding my canvass for the Democratic nomination for County Court Clerk, I wish to extend thanks to my many friends for the courteous treatment they have extended to me throughout the county.

I have received the same courteous treatment in parts of the county where I was unknown that I have where acquainted, for which I am very grateful. I have been over the county in a general way, but have not been able to see all the Democrats in the county, but I will ask that all make inquiry as to my qualification and fitness for the office and if you find me worthy, I will very much appreciate your support. I promise, if nominated, to use all honorable means at my command to win the election in the final race, together with the entire Democratic ticket, and if finally elected, I promise to extend to all the same courteous treatment that I have received in the canvass for this nomination. I promise if defeated for the nomination to give my hearty support to the victorious one and work to carry the entire ticket to victory in November.

I ask in conclusion that all my friends turn out to the primary and use their influence to get out a good vote. I feel that if my friends will be active from now until the primary, that I have the fight won. Respectfully,

J. B. RENFROW.

C. P. TURNER.

In closing my canvass for the Democratic nomination for the office of Jailer for Ohio county, I desire to thank my friends throughout the county for the many kindly expressions and courteous treatment during this campaign. While I have been in many sections of the county, I have found it impossible to make a house-to-house canvass, of the whole county, which I had desired so much to do. I had hoped to see every Democrat personally, but I find that I will have to forego this pleasure. I ask that all make inquiry as to my fitness for the office I seek and if you find that I am the man to help carry the Democratic banner to success in November, I will appreciate your support.

If nominated, I promise to use all honorable means to win the election for myself and the entire Democratic ticket in November. If successful in the final race, I will execute the duties of Jailer to the best of my ability. If, in the good judgment of the Democrats of Ohio county, they think either of my opponents is more competent and better fitted to bear the Democratic banner to success, I will give him and the other Democratic nominees my hearty support in the final race in November.

However, if my friends throughout the county remain actively at work from now until the polls close next Saturday evening, I have no fear of the result.

Respectfully,
C. P. TURNER.

To the Democratic Voters of Ohio County:—I desire to say that since I have been a candidate for the nomination for County Court Clerk, I have made a strenuous effort to see as many voters as I could.

I hope those of you whom I have seen will not lose sight of my interests and that you will kindly remember me at the primary on August 2.

I have made my canvass and feel that I have been benefited by having the experience and should I be your choice, I will assure you that I shall make a more thorough canvass, being ever mindful of the best interests of the party. I urge every Democrat to go to the polls, that we may show our strength, yet it is more important that we go for the purpose of selecting the man of our choice, trying to nominate such men as we feel are best qualified and will render the best service.

The office of County Court Clerk is one very important office of the county and requires the services of a man who possesses knowledge of penmanship and bookkeeping. May I say I have these qualifications and know that I can render you valuable service as your County Court Clerk?

But if the party in their wisdom see fit to choose another, I submit to their will, and will cheerfully support the nominee. Thanking you for any assistance and hoping you may have a clean primary, I remain

Yours to serve,
ULYSSES S. WHALIN.
